

PMSS have been offering cost effective solutions to the NHS for over 30 years.

So much more than just a label company

PMSS have offered quality product solutions to the NHS for over 30 years.

A broken or damaged sample tube can present a serious problem. Apart from the obvious health implications the spillage can ruin other sample requests in the same outer bag.

We are now able to offer absorbent pads in both single request bags and larger outer Pathology Specimen bags.

The pads offer full protection in the event of spillage, therefore greatly reducing the risk of further contamination.

The pads meet and exceed the detailed requirements of protecting samples whilst in transit.

The pads absorbency can vary depending on the quantity of liquid involved in the sample bag.
